

NEWSLETTER

Why Getting Organized Before the Holidays Matters

The holiday season is in full swing bringing with it joy, celebration, full bellies and, let's face it - stress. As a professional organizer, I've seen firsthand how much smoother the holidays can be when your home is in good order. Decluttering and organizing before the gift giving holidays isn't just about creating a Pinterest-worthy home; it's about giving yourself the gift of a calmer, more enjoyable holiday season. In this newsletter we will discuss why starting NOW is worth the effort.

1.) Make Room for Holiday Joy

Between gifts, decorations and hosting supplies, the holidays come with an influx of STUFF. If your home is already cluttered, finding space for these seasonal additions can feel overwhelming. By decluttering beforehand, you create room - both physically and mentally - to enjoy the festive season without the chaos.

2.) Host with Confidence

Whether you're hosting dinner or inviting friends over for a holiday party, an organized home sets the tone for a welcoming space. Pre-holiday decluttering ensures you can entertain without rushing to stash items in closets or feeling embarrassed about messy areas.

3.) Simplify Decorating

Decorating for the holidays is much more enjoyable when your home is tidy. You'll be able to find your holiday decorations easily, and placing them in a clean, uncluttered space will make them shine. Plus, you'll avoid the frustration of overstuffed storage areas.

4.) Teach the Gift of Gratitude

Decluttering before the holidays is a perfect opportunity to teach your family about giving back. Donate gently used items to those in need, and involve your children in the process. It's a meaningful way to make space for the new while spreading kindness.

5.) Start the New Year Fresh

An organized home going into the holidays means you're already ahead when the New Year arrives. Instead of starting January feeling overwhelmed, you'll be ready to tackle new goals in a space that inspires calm and productivity.

Remember, the holidays are about creating memories with loved ones - not battling clutter. A little preparation now can save you time, stress and frustration later.

Need help getting started? Reach out! We are here to help you transform your home into a space that's ready for holiday cheer and beyond. Together, we can create a plan to make this your most joyful (and organized!) holiday season yet.

